How risky is it?
The value of the ETF can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge risk is to look at how much an ETF’s returns change over time. This is called “volatility.” In general, ETFs with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. ETFs with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating
WisdomTree Asset Management Canada, Inc. has rated the volatility of this ETF as medium. This rating is based on how much the ETF’s returns have changed from year to year. It doesn’t tell you how volatile the ETF will be in the future. The rating can change over time. An ETF with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the ETF’s returns, see the Risk Factors section of the ETF’s prospectus.

No Guarantees
ETFs do not have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Average return
A person who invested $1,000 in variably hedged units of the ETF since inception would have $1,125.30 as at April 30, 2018. This works out to an annual compound rate of return of 12.53%.

Trading ETFs
ETFs hold a basket of investments, like mutual funds, but trade on exchanges like stocks. Here are a few things to keep in mind when trading ETFs:

Pricing
ETFs have two sets of prices: market price and net asset value (NAV).

Market price
- ETFs are bought and sold on exchanges at the market price. The market price can change throughout the trading day. Factors like supply, demand, and changes in the value of an ETF’s investment can affect the market price.
- You can get price quotes any time during the trading day. Quotes have two parts: bid and ask.
- The bid is the highest price a buyer is willing to pay if you want to sell your ETF units. The ask is the lowest price a seller is willing to accept if you want to buy ETF units. The difference between the two is called the “bid-ask spread”.
- In general, a smaller bid-ask spread means the ETF is more liquid. That means you are more likely to get the price you expect.

Who is this ETF for?
Investors who:
- want to invest in a broad range of equity securities of U.S. companies
- can handle the ups and downs of the stock market

\(^1\)Returns are calculated using the ETF’s net asset value (NAV).
How much does it cost?
This section shows the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell variably hedged units of the ETF. Fees and expenses - including any trailing commissions - can vary among ETFs.

Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other ETFs and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Brokerage commissions
You may have to pay a commission when you buy and sell variably hedged units of the ETF. Commissions may vary by brokerage firm. Some brokerage firms may offer commission-free ETFs or require a minimum purchase amount.

ETF expenses
You don’t pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the ETFs returns.

As of December 31, 2017, the ETF’s expenses were 0.48% of its value. This equals $4.80 for every $1,000 invested.
